Miss Annah Colket French Will Be Married Today to Edgar S. McKaig at Radnor, Pa.

The marriage of Miss Annah Colket French, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard B. French, of 3221 Spruce street and Radnor, and Edgar S. McKaig will be solemnized this afternoon, at 2 o'clock, in St. Martin's Church, Radnor. Miss French will be given in marriage by her father. She will wear the conventional satin gown, which is elaborately trimmed with rare lace and is made with a very long court train, which is trimmed here and there with tiny sprays of orange blossoms. She will be attended by Miss Dorothy Fox as flower girl, and her bridesmaids will be Miss C. Beatrice B. Fox, Miss Margaret E. Clawson, Miss Margaret Mellor and Miss Margaret Field, of Chicago.

The ushers will be T. Learning Smith, Robert Clothier and Frederick Truitt, of Sharon. The church is beautifully decorated with palms and ferns and huge bunches of white chrysanthemums. Immediately after the ceremony, which will be performed by the pastor of the church, a reception will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. French. The large drawing rooms are lavishly decorated with palms and white flowers. The bridal couple will receive before a bank of exquisite ferns and white flowers. They will leave on a wedding tour after the reception.

HAYMAKER-WAAS Miss Clara Waas, daughter of Mrs. Sarah Waas, of 1721 Edgeley street, and Louis E. Haymaker, of 2135 North Camac street, were married this afternoon at the residence of the Rev. Dr. George W. Henon, 3230 North Broad street. Doctor Henon, who is pastor of the Gethsemane Methodist Church, Broad and Westmoreland streets, performed the ceremony. The bride was given in marriage by her mother and was unattended. Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Haymaker left on a short tour. They will be at home after November 1, at 3138 North Camac street.

CLAPP-ZARTMAN, The wedding of Miss Ruth Zartman, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Rufus C. Zartman, of 1815 West Oxford street, to Ralph Ballet Clapp will take place this evening, at 8 o'clock, in the Holdeberg Reformed Church, at 18th and Oxford streets. The marriage will be performed by the Rev. Mr. Zartman and will be followed by a reception at the bride's home.

DEBUTANTE AFFAIRS Miss Ruth Cox is introduced to Society Today. Miss Cassatt Guest of Honor at Party.

One of the most fashionable teas of the season will be given this afternoon by Mr. and Mrs. Henry Brinton Cox at their place in Fenilly to introduce their daughter, Miss Ruth Cox. The beautiful house and extensive grounds of the Cox place greatly lend themselves to an out-of-doors affair, as the tea will be. The guests will be received in the drawing room, which is an exquisite mass of blooms. Large palms and ferns have been used to make a background for the receiving party.

Mrs. Cox and Miss Cox will be assisted in receiving by a few of their friends. Miss Cox will wear an extremely simple gown, which is especially becoming. Miss Cox will be one of the most feted debutantes of the season. Already a number of balls have been planned in her honor. Foremost among them will be the ball given in Horticultural Hall by her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Brown Cox, and a large dance will be given by her parents at the Bellevue-Stratford the night of December 31.

A second debutante affair today will be the Fish House party, which will be given by Judge and Mrs. J. Willis Martin in honor of Miss Eugenia Cassatt, daughter of Mrs. J. Gardner Cassatt, who will be the guest of honor at a dinner dance next Friday night which her mother will give at their place, Kelsco, in Berwyn, Pa. Judge and Mrs. Martin will entertain about 50 guests in Miss Cassatt's honor.

THE DRAMA

Mlle. CHAPINE Parisian Prima Donna Coming to Lyric

THEATRICAL BAEDEKER

ADELPHI—"The Truth." Grace George in excellent presentation of Clyde Fitch's most brilliant play.

BROAD—"Lady Betty Martingale," new comedy by John Luther Long and Frank Statton. A dream of delightful romance and tender humor amid a nightmare of mediocre plays.

CHESTNUT STREET OPERA HOUSE—"Pilate's Daughter," by Francis L. Kenzel. Miracle play spectacularly staged.

FORREST—"Chin-Chin," musical fantasy, with music by Ivan Caryll. Fred Stone as a Chinese mandarin, Paderewski and a lady bareback rider. Delightful music; an engaging chorus of glorious girls.

GARRICK—"The Yellow Ticket," melodrama by Michael Morton. Florence Reed, revealed as an actress of superlative ability in a melodramatic thriller. Grips but fails to convince.

KEITHS—Law Docket as "Teddy" in black—a screamingly funny burlesque. Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Barry as a "rube" and dazzling actress. Mr. Barry's facial contortions as funny as the jokes of Mark Twain.

LYRIC—"Passing Show of 1914," revue from the New York Winter Garden. Music saved on clothes elaborately expensed on scenery.

WALNUT—"The Round Up." Excellent presentation of popular drama on Wild Western life, with "Sheep" Camp, corpulent and jovial, as the "unloved" fat man.

FLASHES FROM "STARS"

Marie Dressler recently returned from San Francisco with the avowed intention of retiring from the stage. She changed her mind, however, and is now rehearsing in a new farce, called "The Sub." It is expected that the initial performance will take place in about two weeks. "The Sub" was written by Parker A. Hurd, a surveyor, of Mayaville, Ky. It is his first play. A burlesque company stranded in his home city and the resulting experiences of the unfortunate members of the company and the predicament of the burlesque "queen" in particular, suggested a play to Mr. Hurd. He promptly wrote the farce. Mary Asquith, the play broker, thought that the leading part was peculiarly suited to Miss Dressler, so she sent the manuscript to the actress. By noon of the next day the actress had read the play and visited Lee Shubert. An hour later James Dalton, Miss Dressler's manager, had signed contracts with the Shuberts for the early production of the farce, and within the next hour Miss Asquith had signed contracts on behalf of the author for the customary royalties.

One of the most popular hits in "Chin-Chin" is the song "Good-bye, Girls, I'm Through," sung by Douglas Stevenson and a chorus of six girls. As an instance of lucky accident this song hit may be cited. The Montgomery and Stone company were at the Pennsylvania depot in New York waiting to start for Philadelphia for final rehearsals. Mr. Dillingham knew that he must have a song for Mr. Stevenson in the first act, and nothing had been selected up to that time. John Golden was at the depot seeing some of his friends in the company off. As he stood at the gate talking to Anne Caldwell a couple of young fellows shouted out to a bunch of girls who were aboard the train. "Good-bye, girls. 'There you are,' said Mr. Golden. 'There's your song—'Good-bye, Girls.' Miss Caldwell said, 'Well, you write the lyric.' The next day he mailed the verses to Miss Caldwell. They were at once approved by Mr. Dillingham, rushed over to Ivan Caryll, who was stopping at the Bellevue-Stratford, and who immediately wrote the music. Within 24 hours Mr. Stevenson had rehearsed the song.

opetta from the Hungarian, others in the cast will be Comie Ediss; Robert Evtit, an English tenor; Lew Hearn, who has been at the London Hippodrome for two years; Fritz von Busling, Melville Stewart, Alexander Clark, Arthur Lipson, Howard Benham, Betty Lee and Doris La France, a dancer from the Winter Garden, Berlin. There will be a chorus of about 40.

I. W. Hope has completed arrangements for the opening of the starring tour of Adele Blood in "Milady's Boudoir," by J. C. Drum, at His Majesty's Theatre, Montreal, beginning Monday, October 19. Prominent in the supporting cast will be William Riley Hatch, Mark Smith, Henry Bergman, Edward Lynch, Everett Butterfield, Jack Keane, Mrs. Charles D. Craig and Dallas Tyler. Miss Blood will begin her New York engagement at the Garrick Theatre the last week in October.

A play by A. E. Thomas and Clayton Hamilton, "Wanted, $22,000," produced by Cohen and Harris, has had its premiere in Boston. It is said to be a curious and interesting play, and aroused much interest. In the cast are Ernest Glendenning, Forrest Robinson, William Courtleigh, Richard Sterling, Fred Wright, Jr., Desmond Kelley, Hazel Lowrey, Francis Wright and Isabel Garrison.

Oliver Morozco's fall season opened in Los Angeles with the Gaiety company in a new farce in two acts, entitled "Let's Get Married." Miss Ihmsen, of the cast, is the daughter of Mr. Ihmsen, manager of the Los Angeles Examiner. This is the first production of this farce, and is under the direction of Walter Lawrence, who plays the leading male role of Sir Roger O'Malley. He sings some clever songs, one of the best being "Acushla," which was written by Miss Ihmsen. The story is a farce and a light one to be sure, but the musical numbers are more than satisfactory.

David Hispman will forsake music for the drama this season. The well-known baritone, formerly of the Metropolitan Opera, later of the concert, vaudeville and lecture stage, will portray Benjamin Franklin in a new play of that name and written by Louis Evan Shipman. This will be the first time Mr. Hispman has ever faced an audience without singing. Mr. Shipman and Mr. Hispman will be jointly interested in the production, which will be made in December.

Ethel Barrymore will begin her season under the management of Charles Frohman early in December in a new play, "The Shadow," by Dario Nicodemi and Michael Morton, authors of "The Prodigal Husband." The play was to have been produced next month in Paris by Madame Rejane, but owing to the war these plans have been abandoned, and Miss Barrymore will be the first actress to appear in the play on any stage.

While hurrying to early morning rehearsals in New York, Rose Stahl usually stops at a Child's restaurant, where she orders a 30-cent breakfast. Then she gives the waitress 50 cents for a tip.

John Barrymore, who was to have appeared in a new version of "Princess Zim Zim," is to be starred by A. H. Woods in place of Charles Dillingham. Mr. Woods has secured a play which he believes will suit Mr. Barrymore, and rehearsals are about to be started.

"We are even beginning to see a little humor in what was very terrible at first," said B. Mon Payne, stage director of the Little Theatre, who recently arrived from England. "And that was the fear of the northern English coast towns that a naval battle would lead to an invasion. People were forbidden to bathe in the ocean, and every town was prepared for battle or bombardment. I had two companies at the time touring the towns along the coast, and at one place, Shagness, when they arrived for the performance they found the theatre had been turned into a hospital. It was filled with ails, bandages and strong odors of carbolic acid. There was no other place where the performance could be given, so an appeal was made to the authorities. We said that the play was imminent and the battle in the future, and urged that the hospital become a theatre again. So some of the beds were moved back to use as seats, other seats were brought out of the cellar, and amid bandages and disinfecting smells, the company played. "That little incident is only one of many, but it serves to show how completely the British people flung themselves into a stern preparation for whatever the war might bring."

Needed Elsewhere "Tobacco crop failed this year," said the native, "Guess that'll put our guinea pig industry out of business." "No you mean to say you feed 'em tobacco?" "Naw, we feed 'em cabbage."
